HOLLOWAY

The Argyle mine has supplied 90% of the world's best pink diamonds for 30 years. Rio Tinto has announced the mine will close in 2021. These already rare and very valuable diamonds will become even rarer! We regularly source pink diamonds for investment clients, and collectors. Our more affordable pink diamond rings are destined to become valuable family heirlooms.

Because of the types of cutting used to deepen and intensify the colour, most have ugly dark zones when seen face on. Garry Holloway rejects those diamonds.

Yellow Diamonds

Argyle Champagne to Chocolate brownish diamonds are very affordable. Argyle has produced almost all the world's champagne diamonds for three decades. The mine in the far north of Western Australia was a huge open cut mine until 3 years ago. The new underground mine will close in 2021.

There is little difference in C1 to C6 prices. Deeper C7 and C8 usually cost more but their darkness reduces their sparkle. Early on they were called Cognac until the French cognac makers objected. The champagne producers were smarter, they love the association!
